3. Colonel Edwards and Messrs. Warner, Sheridan, Horton, and Paul took up with General Cabell the problem of how to handle the matter of an article which was written by an ex-CIA employee named [ ] and which has been sent to various individuals, including Senator Russell. I informed Gen. Cabell that I had discussed this case with the Armed Services Committee staff, and they had informed me that the manuscript had been sent back to the individual. It was forwarded with a letter from the Senator stating that he was not in a position to pass on whether its release would be in the national interest, and that he had been informed by CIA that the article contained classified information. Various assignments were made at the meeting, but none of them involved any further congressional contacts at this point. It was agreed, however, that the Security Office and Mr. Horton would document the case on the classified information problem and prepare answers to the allegations in the article, in the event there is a later expression of congressional interest. 18 July 1956
